University of Missouri Libraries

Job Description

The University of Missouri Libraries (MU Libraries) invites applications for the full-time, non-tenure track (NTT) Education Librarian position. The Education Librarian designs, delivers, and assesses information literacy instruction for the J. Otto Lottes Health Sciences Library user community, including the College of Health Sciences, the Sinclair School of Nursing, and the School of Medicine. This position emphasizes outreach and relationship building with faculty, students, and researchers across these units. The librarian collaborates with faculty to integrate research and information literacy skills into curricula, provides specialized assistance with evidence-based practice, and supports systematic and scoping reviews. Additionally, the librarian promotes library resources and services and develops programming to advance AI literacy and data among health sciences learners.

Key Responsibilities:
Instruction & Curriculum Integration

- Collaborate with faculty in Health Sciences, Nursing and Medicine to embed information literacy and evidence-based practice concepts into courses.

- Deliver classroom instruction, online modules, and workshops tailored to health sciences education.
- Develop instructional materials, guides, and tutorials for students and faculty.
- Provide AI literacy training to support responsible and effective use of emerging technologies in academic work.

Research & Reference Services

- Offer individualized research consultations for faculty and students.
- Assist with advanced searching, bibliographic management, and evidence synthesis.
- Provide expert guidance on systematic and scoping review methodology, including protocol development, search strategy design, and documentation.
- Conduct comprehensive literature searches in databases such as PubMed, CINAHL, Cochrane Library
- Advise on citation management and screening tools (e.g., EndNote, Covidence).

Collaboration & Outreach

- Serve as a liaison between the Health Sciences Library and academic units.
- Build and maintain strong relationships with faculty and students to identify needs and opportunities for library support.
- Promote library services and resources through outreach and communication initiatives.

Professional Engagement

- Stay current with trends in health sciences education, systematic review standards (e.g., PRISMA), and librarianship.
- Maintain knowledge of emerging technologies such as AI and their impact on teaching, learning, and research.
- Participate in professional development and contribute to scholarly activities.

Qualifications

Master's degree from a program accredited by the American Library Association (ALA) or from a program in a country with a formal accreditation process as identified by ALA.

Anticipated Hiring Range

Salary and librarian rank will be commensurate with experience within an expected range of $58,500-$66,000 per year. This position holds non-tenure track (NTT) faculty status. For information regarding title and rank, please review the MU Libraries' Librarian and Archivist Governance Document found at: https://libraryguides.missouri.edu/ld.php?content_id=79094147

Application Materials

A cover letter, contact information for three references and CV must be uploaded through the brief online application

Other Information

The University of Missouri (MU, Mizzou) was founded in 1839 in Columbia, MO, as the first public university west of the Mississippi River. Today, MU's 31,000+ students represent every Missouri county, all 50 states and 100 countries. As the state's largest and most comprehensive university, MU offers more than 300-degree programs, including 89 online options, through 12 colleges and schools and is one of only six public universities nationwide that has a school of medicine, veterinary medicine college, and a law school. The MU Office of Extension & Engagement extends the benefits of MU research to Missouri's citizens in all 114 counties in Missouri.

Considered one of the nation's top-tier institutions, MU is the only public institution in Missouri to be a member of the Association of American Universities (AAU). The University of Missouri Libraries belong to the Association of Research Libraries (ARL), the Greater Western Library Alliance (GWLA), the Center for Research Libraries, the HathiTrust, and the statewide MOBIUS consortium.
